STATINTL

"...The suggestion is a carefully thought out, well documented, and sensible approach to a serious problem, represents a significant improvement over the system in effect at the time the suggestion was made, and was helpful to us in defining the type of reform needed. It received careful study and provoked considerable comment, and the fact that the eventual solution was more far-reaching than the suggester could have visualized, with the information available to him, does not detract from a praiseworthy effort. I recommend that the suggester's initiative, judgment, and interest be recognized by an incentive award."
